

The EARL SPENCER

The EARL SPENCER is a gastro pub specialising in freshly prepared and cooked food in a traditional pub atmosphere.

Michelin Guide 2015

Bib Gourmand,

"A handsome Edwardian pub a baseline lob away from the All England Tennis Club, the cooking is fervently seasonal; flavours are assured and ingredients marry well", "Traditional", "Good food at moderate prices".

Good Pub Guide 2015

Main Entry for South London,

"Sizeable Edwardian pub with lively bustling atmosphere and plenty of cheerful customers" "Standard lamps, Modern art on the walls and an open fire" "Stools line the U-shaped counter where efficient, friendly staff serve 6 ales on hand pump".

Time Out

Guy Diamond,

"This grand Edwardian drinking palace has had the full gastropub makeover with daily-changing menu and just-baked bread on the bar counter, but is still a proper pub with a log fire and 6 cask-conditioned ales".

Evening Standard

Charles Champion,

"This is how gastropub food should be – well-balanced, freshly cooked seasonal dishes at accessible prices".

AA Pub Guide 2014

Pick of the Pubs,

"Modern Community and Gastro Pub with seasonal menus with everything made on the premises including the bread".

Square Meal 2014

"Vibrant menu that changes every day and is full of seasonal interest in summer and in winter. There's a thought-out wine list for accompaniment, but also plenty of interest for ale drinkers".
